I have got the leaked full October 15, 2007 version of Source Full so this update will contain the final version of Source Full. I have uploaded all the matches from the final version of Source full and also all the entire player-edited files including all the unused maps. I have also uploaded all the entire different versions of Source and the Source-only to show you how the final version looked like. This update contains the final version of Source which is essentially the same as the leaked version 1.6 version of Source but this version has been updated to fix the numerous issues which were caused by the leaked version of Source Full. Here are all the game related fixes in this update: Bugfixes: Game is no longer crashing after the start of a match Game is no longer crashing after the passing of time Game is no longer crashing after the death of a player You can now vote in the post match shows Private game rooms are now working You can now get a fog of war in the round/match lobby map selection The information regarding the match being played is now seen in the stats screen The players name is now visible in the stats screen The player name can now be seen in the contact list of the players The join chat for the players has been corrected Server info in the options now says Source The progress bar for Source has been corrected The loading screen for Source has been corrected The warning screen that says players may not be happy in the server list has been corrected The server list in the match lobby now shows the default servers as well The icons on the servers in the match lobby now display the players who are on that server The scoreboard in the match lobby now correctly displays the players as 82157476af
